COMMUNITY NOTICE:

STRAYING STOCK ON PUBLIC ROADS

WHAT SHOULD YOU DO IF YOU LOCATE STRAYING STOCK ON A PUBLIC ROAD ?

If you are able to identify the owner of the stock, notify the owner who should recover the stock immediately

Report the straying stock to your local Council Ranger or Local Land Services

The presence of straying stock on public roads in rural areas poses a very significant risk for oncoming motorists, especially after dark,

The NSW Police Force has the responsibility to protect people from injury or death and property from damage, whether arising from criminal acts or in other way.

If police are called to an incident of stock straying on a public road they will :

- Assume immediate responsibility for taking practical and appropriate measure to warn oncoming traffic of the imminent danger of the straying stock on the roadway, pending handover of the site to the nearest local Authority.
- handover control of the site, as soon as it is safe to do so, to the nearest local Authority which has both the statutory authority and specialised training and equipment, to remove the straying stock from the roadway.
